The single largest regret that I have with this most recent edition of the text is that I was unable to update the following sources. Through my doctoral program in the 1970's and preparation to teach research design and statistical analysis in the 1980's, I gathered these texts and used them extensively for illustrations, examples and explanations in my classes. The books listed below and quoted in the text are excellent resources, even if they are not the most recent.

Ary, Donald, Lucy Chesar Jacobs and Asghar Razavieh. Introduction to Research in Education. New York: Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 1972.
